A Journey through Time
at Lake Constance

Welcome to Lake Constance Gardens

For centuries, hard-working gardeners have been sowing, planting and weeding at Lake Constance. From the castle grounds to the cottage garden, there is row upon row of charming green oases spread across the four-country region nowadays. The parks and gardens allow their visitors to take an exciting journey through the ages of garden culture – from the Stone Age to the present day, interspersed with magnificent views of the lake. Gardens, such as the Mainau and Reichenau islands, the park and medieval gardens of Arenenberg Castle, the school and experimental gardens at Arenenberg, Salem Monastery and Palace, the New Palace of Meersburg, the Ittingen Charterhouse, the Überlingen Garden Culture Path, the villas and parks on the Bavarian Riviera Lindau, the landscape park and kitchen garden of Wartegg Castle, the World of Natural Remedies by A.Vogel in Roggwil and the garden meetings at the Lower Lake are all united in the network:

A Journey through Time at Lake Constance

Lake Constance Gardens tell their story

The mild climate of the Lake Constance region has always been an advantage for gardeners. Within the landscape which is characterised by its blue lake and green banks, the parks with fantastic views and lovingly-tended gardens have been developed over the centuries. 'Lake Constance Gardens – A Journey through Time' invites you to discover the most beautiful gardens around the lake and at the same time learn about the exciting history of horticultural design in the region. Around Lake Constance, you can experience the entirety of Europe's horticultural history. From the Stone Age, to antiquity, into the Middle Ages, right into the 19th century and the present day – visitors can experience all this for themselves.

Reichenau Island

Birthplace of Western horticultural culture

Over 1'200 years ago, the monk Walahfrid Strabo, from Reichenau, published Europe's first garden guide 'Hortulus – On Horticulture'.

With 24 verses about the same number of plants, the world heritage island of Reichenau became the birthplace of Western garden culture. A herb garden planted according to the example of Hortulus serves as a reminder, even today, of the long horticultural tradition on Reichenau.

Famous Gardeners

Even well-known names have made history over the centuries with their passion for gardens. In addition to Walahfrid Strabo, both titled hobby gardeners and dedicated botanists have tried their hand at gardening.

Napoleon III

The French king spent a large part of his youth in Arenenberg Castle, which has an idyllic view over Lower Lake Constance in the Salenstein area. Who might have been the designer of the plot in Arenenberg is not known for sure. However, the initiator of the stunning park was Louis Napoleon's mother, Hortense de Beauharnais. As of 1834, her son, together with Prince Hermann von Pückler-Muskau, redesigned the park and gave it the appearance it still has today. Today, visitors can stroll through the castle's apartments, which have retained their original design, as well as through the beautifully-designed park. Between fountains, there are royal 'pleasure grottos', a Hermitage and 13 hectares of gardens waiting to be discovered.

Hermann Hesse

In 1904, when Hermann Hesse moved to Gaienhofen on the HÖri peninsula with his wife, Mia, the village had fewer than 300 inhabitants. Here, life reform ideas inspired Hesse to keep a large self-sufficient garden. The 9'000 square metre plot of meadows and arable fields was planted with all sorts of trees, agricultural crops and flowers by Hesse. There, everything prospered in the spirit of the 'Zeitgeist', which was fashionable at the time: without pesticides, producing their own fertiliser and using the circulation principle. He even used small garden fires, in order to produce mineral-rich ash, which would then be mixed with the planting soil. This was as environmentally-friendly as it gets! In Gaienhofen, both residences of the author have been preserved. One is now part of the Hermann-Hesse-HÖri Museum.

www.hermann-hesse-house.org/hesse-garden-history/

Otto Dix

Beauty can even be found in exile. Particularly at Lake Constance. Even the famous painter, Otto Dix, soon succumbed to the idyllic beauty of the HÖri peninsula on the western side of Lake Constance, despite unfortunate circumstances. He had moved there with his family shortly after the Nazis came to power.

Despite Dix himself not being a passionate gardener, Martha Dix brought the family's home and garden into harmony. She and their son, Jan, planted the garden. Despite not being professionals, they did this with flair. Otto Dix only occasionally expressed his preference for certain plants. Lovingly planted in homage to the so-called 'architectural garden', as well as the modern concept of the 'living garden', it was a meeting place for the Dix family. The house in Hemmenhofen was newly opened as the Dix House Museum in 2013 and can be visited during its opening hours.

Count Lennart Bernadotte

Love got the ball rolling: Count Lennart Bernadotte refused the title of Prince and the right to the Swedish throne, married the untitled Karin Nissvandt and moved into the castle on the wilderness island of Mainau in 1932. Neither the neglected castle nor the park, which was reminiscent of a rainforest, put off Count Bernadotte. Quite the opposite – he dedicated himself to gardening and brought new life to the island. The result is a sea of scented flowers, exotic plants and a mature tree population. The castle and a butterfly house are the crowning glory of this botanical artwork. Even today, a million visitors a year flock to the park. After the death of Count Lennart, aged 95, in 2004, his second wife, Countess Sonja, developed Mainau GmbH into a multi-generational family business with daughter Countess Bettina and son Count Bjorn as the new managers. The 'island of flowers' is open to visitors throughout the year from sunrise to sunset.

In the Lake Constance region, many horticultural shows and large exhibitions are taking place or are planned for the coming years:

2020: Large garden show from Baden-Württemberg in Überlingen

2021: Garden show from Bavaria in Lindau

2024: Garden show in Wangen in the Allgäu

2027: EXPO Ostschweiz – Swiss national exhibition (planned)

Mainau Island

The island of flowers is a delight for garden lovers. As well as unbelievable flowers blossoming over the course of the seasons (hundreds of thousands of tulips and daffodils, the Italian rose garden, 12,000 dahlias in over more than 250 varieties), there is also the magical butterfly house, a glass palm house and one of Europe's major orchid exhibitions from March to May. And: Many exotic trees were planted 150 years ago.

Reichenau Island

Reichenau Island is not only known as the birthplace of 'Hortulus', but also as a 'vegetable island'. Tomatoes, cucumber, lettuce, wine and much more grows here. Furthermore, the island has been a UNESCO World Heritage Site since the end of 2000. The well-preserved churches provide picturesque examples of monastery culture, with the carefully-restored mural paintings showing Reichenau as a cultural centre with great importance for European art history.

Garden Culture Path Überlingen

The Überlingen Garden Culture Path connects approximately four kilometres of the most beautiful natural sights in this spa and holiday town. A botanic highlight of the well sign-posted trail is the town park. Under the shade of trees and in the midst of exotic plants and majestic trees, you can listen to the bubbling of the fountain or marvel at the imposing cactus collection.

Meersburg New Palace

The garden at the Meersburg New Palace makes an impression with its wonderful panoramic view of Lake Constance. The strictly composed garden grounds with their low hedges are typical for this period of the baroque era. The pleasure garden was constructed in 1712, the plans were drawn by the castle master builder, Christoph Gessinger. The original lower terrace with the picturesque pavilion has even been preserved.

Gardens on the German shore of Lake Constance

There's something sublime about wandering amongst all of the blooming plants and flowers in the lovingly crafted parks and gardens on the north side of Lake Constance. You quickly forget the time and lose yourself completely in the beauty of nature. And the best part is, on top of that there is the most beautiful view of the lake facing the peaks of the alps. You can hardly find a more impressive sight in nature.

Villas and parks on the Bavarian Riviera Lindau

During the 19th and at the start of the 20th century, the aristocracy and middle classes of Lindau had elegant villas built for them on an approximately six kilometre stretch of the shore of Lake Constance. There are rows of almost 30 important villas of various architectural styles. The Lindau Garden Culture Path follows four different trails through the villas and parks on the Bavarian side of Lake Constance.

Wartegg Castle

Over 90 years ago even Empress Zita enjoyed the unique variety of the English Parks around Wartegg Castle at Rorschacherberg with a view of Lake Constance. The green oasis was planted in 1860 and today is an enchanting national garden memorial. In the middle of the park the castle vegetable garden spreads over an area of 2,500 square metres – a biologically dynamic variety garden by Pro Specie Rara.

A.Vogel's World of Natural Remedies

The Native Americans already knew to cherish the curative powers of the purple coneflower, the echinacea purpurea. The pioneer of natural medicine, Alfred Vogel, first brought the seeds of this plant from America to Lake Constance. In Roggwil visitors can discover the new experience centre for natural medicine, the Echina-Point, and enjoyed gazing at the purple magnificence of the flower. Guided tours are also available for groups.

Thurgau Garden Canton

The lovely landscape of Thurgau seems like a large natural garden. The spectrum ranges from wide-spread orchards and expanses of vineyards and fields, to tended public and private gardens. The Bischofzell Rose Weeks, the Seeburg Park in Kreuzlingen and the Fischingen monastery with its courtyard are just a few examples of this special garden landscape.

Castle & Park Arenenberg

In 1816 Queen Hortense, the exiled First Lady of France, planned one of the first landscape parks on the lake. In doing so she drew upon elements of older Renaissance gardens. Since then attractions including the half-submerged grottos, the Jacob's Ladder, the forest and the breath-taking views have amazed visitors from near and far. Additionally in 2014, a medieval pleasure garden was reconstructed.

Ittingen Charterhouse

The magic and the variety of the gardens in the former Carthusian monastery invite you to take a gentle stroll. Herb, vegetable, hop gardens and vineyards can be discovered with the audio-guide on four trails. More than 1,000 rose bushes and the largest rose collection in Switzerland transform the garden into a unique blossoming wonder every year. Those looking for peace and quiet will find it in the tranquil centre of the Thyme Labyrinth.
